Suzuki Program for Violin & Cello

The Suzuki Method nurtures young musicians using the highly respected teaching method developed by Dr. Shinichi Suzuki. Our expert Suzuki instructors are equally committed to teaching instrumental technique and promoting holistic child development. We believe in instilling creativity, confidence, and love of learning while nurturing brain development, spatial awareness, social skills, and child/parent relationships.

This method differs from traditional methods of teaching instrumental music by involving the student at a very early age (ages 2+). The Suzuki String Program at Harmonia includes weekly private lessons and biweekly group classes through the school year. Recitals, parent orientation, and an observation class are also included. (ages 4+)

10 Equal Payments (2Payments) or Pay in Full

- 30 min weekly private lessons + biweekly group classes $291 /month ($1,455) or $2,910/year
- 45 min weekly private lessons + biweekly group classes $408/month ($2,040) or $4,080/year
